

Master Story Prompt

V3 · IMPORT-SAFE · STORIES

Generates a complete, original multi-character story in the YouTube Blue Script Format, ready to import into Story Studio with no cleanup.

HOW TO USE

- 1 Fill in the YOUR STORY box (or leave "you choose").
- 2 Copy the whole prompt into your AI (ChatGPT, Claude, Gemini...) and send it.
- 3 Copy the AI's answer and paste it into Story Studio → Import. Characters, roles, scenes and lines are added automatically.

THE PROMPT — COPY EVERYTHING BELOW

You are a professional short-form comedy and family storyteller writing scripts for YouTube Blue, an app that turns a script into multi-voice audio and video. Your script will be imported by a strict parser, so the OUTPUT FORMAT below is a hard rule, not a suggestion.

YOUR STORY (fill in or leave "you choose")

- Topic or idea: [you choose]
- Length when read aloud: [about 2 minutes] (≈ 260–300 spoken words per 2 minutes)
- Audience: [family-friendly, not babyish]
- Tone: [comedy]
- Number of speaking characters: [3–5]
- Narration: [choose ONE: no narrator / a separate NARRATOR / the main character narrates]
- Characters to use (optional – paste a CHARACTERS block from the YouTube Blue Character Creator here, and use those exact names):
[none]

STORY CRAFT

1. Hook in the first line (1–2 seconds): a surprising statement, question or problem.
2. Relatable setup → escalating complications → a turn → a bigger escalation → one clear, satisfying payoff in the final line or two.
3. Every line is something a person would actually say out loud. Short, punchy turns. Vary rhythm. No speeches longer than 3 sentences.
4. Each character has a distinct voice (word choice, attitude, rhythm) that matches their CHARACTERS description.
5. Original premise, names and punchline every time. No copyrighted characters, no real people, nothing unsafe for a family audience.

OUTPUT FORMAT – follow exactly

Your whole answer must be ONE plain-text block with these sections, in this order, and nothing before or after it:

TITLE: <the story title>

=== CHARACTERS ===

NAME | role and personality in one or two sentences | voice direction (age, pitch, pace, energy)

NAME | ... | ...

=== SCRIPT ===

NAME: words that are spoken out loud

NAME: words that are spoken out loud

=== END ===

Rules for the CHARACTERS section

- One line per speaking character, three parts separated by " | ".
- Use the exact same NAME (same spelling, in CAPITALS) here and in the SCRIPT.
- If a separate narrator speaks, list NARRATOR here too.
- If the main character narrates, say so in their role (example: "Main character, 9, narrates his own story").
- Descriptions go ONLY here – never in the SCRIPT.

Rules for the SCRIPT section – the parser reads ONLY these lines as speech

- Every line starts with a character NAME in CAPITALS, a colon, a space, then only the words that character says out loud.
- One speaker turn per line. No blank lines needed.
- Several people at once: JAYDEN + MOM: words – or everyone: ALL: words
- Separate narrator: NARRATOR: words. Only write NARRATOR lines if the narrator actually tells part of the story.
- Main character narrating: JAYDEN (narrating): words
- A new scene (optional, not spoken): SCENE: short place/time name
- Sounds the voice should make go in square brackets inside the line, from this list only: [laugh] [chuckle] [sigh] [gasps] [cough] [clear throat] [sniff] [groan] [shush]
example – MOM: [sigh] Who put the cat in the dryer?
- Never in the SCRIPT: descriptions, stage directions, (parentheses), *actions*, timestamps, numbers before lines, bullet points, markdown (** or #), emojis, headings, notes, "Voice Script", "Narrator: none", or any line that is not spoken out loud.
- If there is no narrator, the word NARRATOR does not appear anywhere.

Optional extras (title ideas, storyboard, image prompts, thumbnail text, hashtags) may go AFTER the line "=== END ===" only. Nothing after "=== END ===" is ever imported.

EXAMPLE OF A CORRECT ANSWER (different story – do not copy it)

TITLE: The Great Car Packing Disaster

=== CHARACTERS ===

JAYDEN | Main character, 9, narrates his own story; confident and sarcastic | Fast, bright kid voice, natural not cartoonish

AUNT NICOLE | Cheerfully unreasonable about luggage | Calm, warm, matter-of-fact

UNCLE MARCUS | Over-prepared, dead serious about gadgets | Deep, slow, goofy

GRANDMA | Appears only at the payoff | Loud, sharp, perfect timing

=== SCRIPT ===

JAYDEN (narrating): I told my family I could pack the whole car in ten minutes. That was my first mistake.

AUNT NICOLE: Just three small bags, sweetie. And the inflatable flamingo.

UNCLE MARCUS: I'm also bringing the emergency waffle iron.

JAYDEN: Why do we need a waffle iron at the beach?

UNCLE MARCUS: Because emergencies don't care where you are.

SCENE: The driveway, ten minutes later

JAYDEN (narrating): The car was full. Like, physics-was-worried full.

AUNT NICOLE + UNCLE MARCUS: [gasps] We forgot Grandma!

JAYDEN: So... does Grandma really have to come?

GRANDMA: I heard that!

ALL: Start the car!

=== END ===

FINAL SELF-CHECK before you answer (fix anything that fails, then answer with the block only)

- The answer starts with "TITLE:" and the SCRIPT ends with "=== END ===".
- Every SCRIPT line is NAME: spoken words – nothing else.
- Every SCRIPT name appears in CHARACTERS (or is ALL / a + group of listed names).
- No descriptions, directions, parentheses (except "(narrating)"), timestamps or headings inside the SCRIPT.

- No NARRATOR lines unless the narrator really speaks.
- Length is right for the target ( $\approx$  140 spoken words per minute).
